My dear Mrs. Twizley:

Your very nice letter added considerably to the pleasure I had already experienced in arranging for that "big" book to be sent you. I am just as sure you will not get mental indigestion from reading the book as I am that I shall not get the other kind when Hugh acts upon your kind suggestion to have me to dinner. It is nice of you to think of doing so.

As to Ellen's behavior with the Valentines, I saw nothing in my rather casual perusal of the book which specifically treated the subject of moulding the attitude of a young lady toward the opposite sex along "merciful" lines, but if Kipling was right - and her action would tend to confirm his judgment - that would be a waste of time anyhow.

I, too, am looking forward to my next visit with you all; and it has been known to happen that both movies and bridge were had in one evening.

With kindest regards, believe me,

Sincerely, Norman S. White

My dear Mrs. Guilford: I have very much pleasure in replying to the pleasure I have already experienced in conveying for that "big" book to be sent for I am glad so much you will not get tired of waiting for receiving the book and I am glad I shall not get the other kind when I have sent you this suggestion to send me to dinner. It is nice of you to think of dinner.

As to Ellen's behavior with the Volante, I am nothing in my rather casual opinion of the book which especially treats the subject of maintaining the attitude of a young lady toward the opposite sex along "moral" lines, but if I might say right - and I think would think to confirm his judgment - that there is a world of time and space I, too, am looking forward to my next visit with you all, and it has been known to happen that both and I have been in one evening.
With kindest regards, believe me,

Dear Junior -

You will be surprised to hear from me I know, and when I tell you not to tell a soul you will think this has all the earmarks of a scandal! But it is quite simple - it is about Mother & Daddy and your apartment. You may tell Dorothy of course but no one else as if it ever got to Mother & Dad they would skin me alive! - and things like this have a habit of traveling fast in Lancaster, so I am trusting you, that you will keep this to yourself, think it over carefully and then forget it or act upon it as the case may be.

Do you really want that apartment more than Mother & Dad do? It is small and I don't doubt in a few years you will have a couple of offspring - maybe triplets! - and then your one

"The Seven Last Words of Christ"

—Dubois

Introduction

All ye people who by the way are passing—give ear to me, behold, was there ever sorrow like my sorrow.

First Word

"Father forgive them, for they know not what they do."
Then the people shouted, "He of death is worthy."

Second Word

"This day shalt Thou be with me in Paradise." Lord remember me when Thou comest into Thy Kingdom.

Third Word

"Woman, behold thy son."
By the cross the mother weeping.. Her sad vigil there is keeping.. Watching by her dying Son.

Fourth Word

"My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken me?"
All those I once called friends, have forsaken me.

Fifth Word

"I thirst."
And all those who were passing by, reviled Him, saying:
"If Thou be king of the Jews, save thyself now."

Sixth Word

"Father into Thy hands I commend my spirit."
For Thou art my Father, and my God.

Seventh Word

"It is finished."
And He gave up the ghost.

idea will be to build or move to a house with more room and a yard for the children to play in - I speak knowingly when I say babies take a lot of room, small as they are! Then off you will go, forgetting in a few years what the inside of that apartment even looks like.

And in the meantime you have chased out an old couple who thought they were comfortably settled for the rest of their lives. Dad you know suffers from asthma and it is hard to find an apartment conveniently located for him to get his meals, etc and with few steps to climb and the proper ventilation. Whereas you two young healthy specimens in tune with yourselves and all the world can be comfortable and happy most anywhere - couldn't you?

Mother is happy in having her friends, Mrs Wiener and Mrs Bohrer near by, but Dorothy wouldn't find them congenial. And I, oh yes there is a selfish motive behind this letter, too! — I should be overjoyed when I visit Mother & Dad to find my dear friend Kitty Lutz living just above me!

Oh, Junior, please — you and Dorothy think this over carefully — and see my point of view and let Mother & Dad rest in peace! Of course, way up here in Bellefonte I don't know the ins & outs of this and I may be on the wrong track — Maybe Mr.
Haymaker doesn't want Dad & Mother — but you know and you can help.

Well, I think that's all — and I hope I haven't said too much — I don't want to stir up any trouble — just to ask you a favor which seems plausible to me but may seem preposterous to you! You may take it or leave it, and that will be the end of it, no harm done.

Sincerely,

Nora Reynolds Dringhy.

Dear Nora,

Just a little note before I leave the office to tell you how sorry I am to have missed seeing you last Monday while I was in Bellefonte. I had just a wee bit of time when I was at your place in the afternoon & as I expected to have the whole evening to myself I thought that I would see you at that time. But, lo & behold, I of course had to get tied up with one of our dealers that the salesman wanted me to see & when we were finished it was too late to even call you on the phone.

Although I have never met Hugh, I've heard a lot about him & hope the opportunity

Now that your trip is Did you have a idea I would miss you as much as I have in these ten hours and the longer it will be before I see you again the more I will miss you and the more I will wish I were back in Bermuda to go to another dance with you or to take a walk before tea. You were a dear Nora to be so nice to me and go to so many parties etc. with me. The four weeks that I spent to stay would have dragged by very slowly if it hadn't been for you, while now it doesn't seem that nine weeks have gone so quickly. They certainly were good times, the best days I have ever had in my life Nora only because I could look forward to seeing you every day. I thought of you this morning at the sewing circle & this afternoon at bright spot I can see at present and that seems a long way off. In the light short weeks we got to know each other pretty well and then to have to stop seeing you for two months is awful. I could see you and then start for Front Street and then could see you white dress disappear behind the custom house wall. I don't weep very easily but when I said good bye to you on the dock and then saw you disappearing I came very near it.

Norcie dear:- Gee, I was glad to get your sweet letter last night - I found it waiting for me when I got back to the ship about eight o'clock after an unpleasant trip out to Langley Field. This boy was going to show me some new fangled stunts he had just invented such as the "barrel roll" & the like, with variations, but unfortunately a strong wind broke out during the afternoon & we couldn't get a ship as the flying officer said "he didn't want any of his ships broken up trying any foolishness in the wind" He emphasized "ships" for he didn't care about us at all - It's the ships that count (?)

I did get a good ride the other day tho. One of the stunt pilots took me a ride that was a ride - He knew I had been up before so I guess figured that I thought I knew all about flying so decided to show me I didn't - Well he didn't have to convince me of that for the more you fly the more you realize how much there is to it. Anyway

I proceeded to show me & believe me I thought I had been tossed around at sea, but by the time we got thru looping the loops & flying on our back & sliding into tail spins & falling leaves etc. I figured we went to France on a billiard table - I'm sure was fun thought - We did all but one of the "barrel rolls" & when I do that I'll be satisfied - They are sure fun - You just keep turning over & over as you fly - Not looping but rolling over & over like a seal - You'll have ~~another~~ a brother aviator pretty soon I spend more time at Langley than any where else -

I sure had to laugh at your remarks about Mrs. Swift - It's a good thing you didn't tell me that letter (?) You know that I

Well I think he is really very nice but I am afraid he is pretty far from worthy of your love - I know him pretty well, in fact very well, & I happen to know just about exactly what he thinks of you - Do you want to know? I

^{you considered him} thought him worthy of your love, he would feel it the greatest compliment we will have to keep in landing anything happens. I will call you up when I get there - Will

This is going to be a real letter. I won't write many like this. it is too dangerous.
I am too absent minded, and leave things around.

Dearest;

I wrote you last night 12½ hrs ago. it is now 6.45 A.M.

Last night has been the worst night I ever put over. I went to bed at 8 pm. I felt blue so I thought I would sleep, but I could not sleep. all the time I kept remembering

Elizabeth and Frank go out to day. I have tried every argument to keep Mother here till about the Eight. but to use. she says school.

So I must go Sunday.

But on June 11. a little over a month I leave school. I will go to N.Y. and I'll take the Pen-RA train via Phil. it is almost as quick. So then I can see you for a few hrs.

I just must see you then -

3 things I hope.

1 you write me often
(and on the train)

2 that we see each other again..

3 that my train is 5 days late - (no chance).

I received the first saying from Mr Gray last night - He said.

What are you going to do now that Miss Reynolds has gone north. I suppose you will rush away too

^{de} enjoyed you, especially when he was well He said it is too bad he was not well all the time that us three could of had some more times together.
But all is over now Malta and I are here alone. I wish you were here so I could talk to you I had so much to tell you that I never did and we could have done lots more things then as usual I got flustered and said quicker things. I always make things look worse that than they are so I think I'll keep still now when they start talking about our business. I wish they would mind their own business.

Mother is very nice she says nice things and says ^{she} ~~the~~ misses you too, far dingy rides and turtle hunting all sorts of things to do.

But time was so short.

You remember what you said, about never meeting the person, you, ^{extended} ^(Boy sure good at something) had planned out for you, to marry.
You said it was sad!

It is not $\frac{1}{2}$ so sad as when you meet the person and can't marry her. you must be $\frac{1}{2}$ so far, I just can't seem to live with out you. I never felt so blue before in my young life. That is straist goods too, I never did.

Ah I got a idea. I wake you with what is left a vanity boy.
I mean what is left of much while in Atlantic City did not bore you to any great degree. It surely must have, as the plans were so indefinite just exactly what to do, and then, after a few "I don't care's",

No doubt you are me, but I sincerely hope that you will survive the shock.

It was really a great pleasure to have met ~~met~~ you and I hope that you will not think me too forward in writing ~~on~~ such short acquaintance.

So, to tell the truth, the day ended up with eighteen holes of golf.

I play a perfectly slicing game and am all over the course. Had a great game this afternoon, in fact went around in several hundred.

I am so sorry that you could not have stopped over in Philly, today, for we could have dropped in at the City for tea and had a few dances, however, I am living on hopes that I may see you in the near future, and if so, plans will be made and we will see that they are carried out.

I trust that you will forgive my writing to you so soon, and also, I really wish that you would write very soon, letting me know what you are doing and where you are.

Wishing you a very pleasant visit in Lancaster, I am,

Dear Nora.

I have been meaning to write for some time but have been waiting in the hope that I might be able to tell you I had met Miss Robinson. Unfortunately I haven't done so yet but I hope to shortly. Owing to my natural shyness and a heap of work I have not yet been to call on her as I have been hoping I might meet her at a dance or party as I haven't done so though I shall try to go & call one day next week. Bermuda is horrible! For the first week here it rained solidly every day. I own the last two days have been fine but it is too good to last. I wish we could come back to Nassau. I went to a dance at the Hamilton on Tuesday night but I can't say I enjoyed it very much. There was a big fancy dress dance at the Princess on Wednesday but I didn't go to it. They say it was awfully crowded. I can't think why you like Bermuda better than Nassau, there doesn't seem to be a single thing that is up to Nassau standard here!

I wonder if you are still having such wonderful hot weather & going over to the beach every day. I shall always remember that day we went over there as one of the best days I have ever had. You see I am naturally selfish and my selfishness was satisfied that day as I had you all to myself. Perhaps I may have an equally good day in England some time. You will write & let me know if ever you find you are going to England, won't you? My English

I hope you had a nice moonlight picnic on the night we left. I was on watch up till midnight & I missed you very much. Many thanks for the preserved ginger which was very good. The men who all seemed so drunk that night sobered down wonderfully when they got on board! We had quite a nice journey up here and got in just before a very nasty gale got up. We are in dry dock at present & we seem so shut in that one can hardly breathe. We are supposed to be doing another cruise down South in about 3 weeks or a month & then coming back & going North about the end of May. I don't suppose we shall call at Nassau again on our way South, where shall I call so that I may see you when we go North? As far as I can tell I am going to stay in this ship till she goes home & not go back to the flag ship thank goodness.

Excuse this writing but I have a vile pen. If ever you have time to do send me a line.

Yours

Cyril Forth.

Dear Nora.

There is a boat from a neighbouring island going to town so I must take this opportunity of writing a letter to you. Excuse the pencil but I am just about to start on a trip to an island 15 miles away to try & get a cook. The woman I have now has nearly killed me. She ^{put} three windows curtains on the table instead of a cloth & gave me bread baked 4 days before I went to Nassau & gives me dirt kash for every meal. It isn't all your fault but if you had come out you could have told her off & taught me to cook - I try to teach her but somehow I seem to be as bad as she is.

Sunday was quite a red letter day you ought to have brought sweets to church but that was just a little oversight. George was a brick & really enjoyed that ride.

I will send you the photos at the earliest moment possible & will expect a letter in reply.

I will come in in a weeks time if I can't get a cook who can cook.

Blanche will be in the States by this time & you will be the only girl left - keep them in order - the boys -

Dear Sam:-

Thank you very much for your kind little note of March 26th. As soon as the weather gets warm enough to thaw out the old man, he is going to venture to ask your very charming little Sister and your noble self to lunch with him some Saturday.

I cease adoring you. Whenever I discover any new and beautiful attribute in a girl, instantly I imagine you are possessing it, whenever I discover anything mean or petty in a girl, instantly I imagine you as impossible of possessing the same faults. You are my chimera, my mirage of womanly perfection — because I have never seen you long enough to know better. And perhaps that would take a long, long time. So I will never again call you "capable", though I like the word personally, but just a sweet, lovable, genuinely nice girl.

Again the hour before that damned drama close.

My own dear Pallman crush, Burst in the house determined to write a twenty page life of Hamilton in an hour, a feat impossible for the most nimble fingered stenographer in the world — to find your letter. Climbed to the heights of happiness and the depths of despair in five minutes. You are tantalizing, and if you remain so for always, I'll never cease loving you with all the power in my little soul.

For dear dear, I can't, can't, can't come to Lancaster for any time during the holidays except the 20th, 21st and possibly the 22nd. If there was any possible way I would, in fact if there was even an impossible way, I would attempt it, — but there isn't even that.

For on the morning of the 24th I was home to my loving (?) parents as they have promptly commanded me to in divers letters in time for Miss Kingle to fill my stocking as if yours. For weeks I have dreamed of Bathing, New York, Pittsburgh, and for the last week — Lancaster, but it all must be squeezed in before Christmas!

So, you tiger-eyed mystery, you must, must, shall come home on the 19th. Be rich, have a new one head-down, be rebellious of art, be anything appropriate for the attainment of a leave of absence from that damned combination of Greenwich Village and the Beaux Arts and come home with us on the night of the 19th. Or the morning of the twentieth. You see I must be in Pittsburgh for two days as I have promised, for two coming out parties and I want to see you again more than anything I know.

Nora, I hope some day to make you love me for something besides my blue eyes. But if that alone will satisfy you, I'm happy. Admitted that I'm fickle, can't help it, always have been and have enjoyed the results - but Nora if you care and want to, - you can lead me the most constant path you wish. I have no proof of that statement but I just feel it.

Please pardon this disconnected letter, it's all but time for class and I have no cuts left, so must tear in about three minutes. All during my aesthetic lecture on the power of the spoken word, I'll be puzzling the word containing two "ls" on the back of your envelope. Will solve it if I have to call the great Ambrose graduate and word chuck, Noah Webster, to my aid.

Am fearfully jealous of your art teacher! It's a man, isn't it? I have don't fall for him or I shall die of broken heart, or for killing him.
You are the nicest girl I know, and I hope and know, if you desire to have me believe so, that some day I'll think you're the most wonderful thing in the world.

Dear "Nora",

Reached this ancient old college town last night at ten o'clock and spent the rest of the night listening to my fraternity brothers regale the other, unfortunately upon tid-bits of vacation episodes in which the narrator always played a major role.

Then came the momentful toll of the chapel bell this morning at eight o'clock and the usual run for morning service before the door was closed. Oh how I wanted to sleep!

This noon after lunch, as I sat before an open fire in the smoking room, the thought came to me that today you entered a life dedicated to art which translated means "an excuse for living in New York". Now it is half past eleven and I have just returned from Northampton after a "duty" call on a girl who is entertaining Jack and I at her house in Pittsburgh at holiday time. She's a former Rosemary girl, Elizabeth Mellon by name.

So here I am, tired out, sleepy, half dozing in this great arm chair with a sewing board (used as easy chair writing boards by ingenious students) propped up in front of me and my room-mate snoring on the window seat with a "Life of Bismarck" on the floor beside him where he dropped it.

Now, due to the fact that you are in a different sphere of every day life and consequently a sort of unreality, one can't hedge around and be subtle. So I want to tell you tonight that you have proven to me that "love at first sight" is no fallacy.

We don't know each other at all, probably you haven't even thought of me since - but I can't help telling you that right now I like you more than any girl I know - just because you're you.

Please write me sometime soon and tell me how you like your new life.

My dear Nora; -

Perhaps I should address you now as Miss Reynolds, but I can only think of you as the little four years old Nora, with golden curls, whom we knew at the Pines Hotel in Pasadena, about fifteen years ago.

If, perchance, a card which I left at 127 East Orange St. Lancaster, about ten days ago, ever reaches you, or your brother's family, you will wonder who we are, so I am writing to explain, for neither you or your brother Sam, who was,

We were so sorry not to be able to find you, but I trust that this letter may be forwarded to you, to let you know that when in the vicinity of your old home, we remembered the little girl we were so fond of fifteen years ago.

a girl, Nora Reynolds by name, living there." We found the house closed and for sale, but a maid in a doctor's house next to yours, said your family was South, except a daughter Nora, who was away at school somewhere. She had seen a man cleaning there the day before, so thought the family must be coming back there soon. And so I ventured to leave, under the door, a card bearing my sister's name, Tom's and my own, and if any of you find such a card this letter will explain its presence. If your mother is living, and I most sincerely hope that you have not been deprived of her, - she may remember us, but we were by ourselves a great deal, as my mother was not well, and I myself did not feel like meet-not recovered from the shock caused by the death of Tom's father but a few months before we left home.

I have been wondering where you are at school. We have, com-quite a few children from the far West, friends of Tom's who are East in college or Preparatory schools, whose families were very kind to him two years ago when I sent him out to the Yellowstone region for the summer. We have had several Smiths and a Stone Hall girl - and this last Christmas a very young woman from Indiana and she was there. All kind of people and places in the West they had been to have during those weeks. I remember you

I had my heart set on occasion, and I feel perfectly sick that business interferes.

Mr & Mrs Reynolds -

I thank you for your very kind invitation to the marriage of your daughter to Hugh Dingley, one of my best friends. I regret, very much to state, that it will not be possible for me to attend, on that date, much as I would like to; I am making preparations, now, & expect to sail, shortly, back to Colombia, South America.

I am mailing, to your daughter, Miss Elvira, in this mail, a little piece of feather-work, done in Bogota, the capital of Colombia; I will insure or register, or whatever is required, & she can be on the look-out, for it.

While I have not had the pleasure of meeting you, or your daughter, I can anticipate that pleasure & hope that it will not be long.

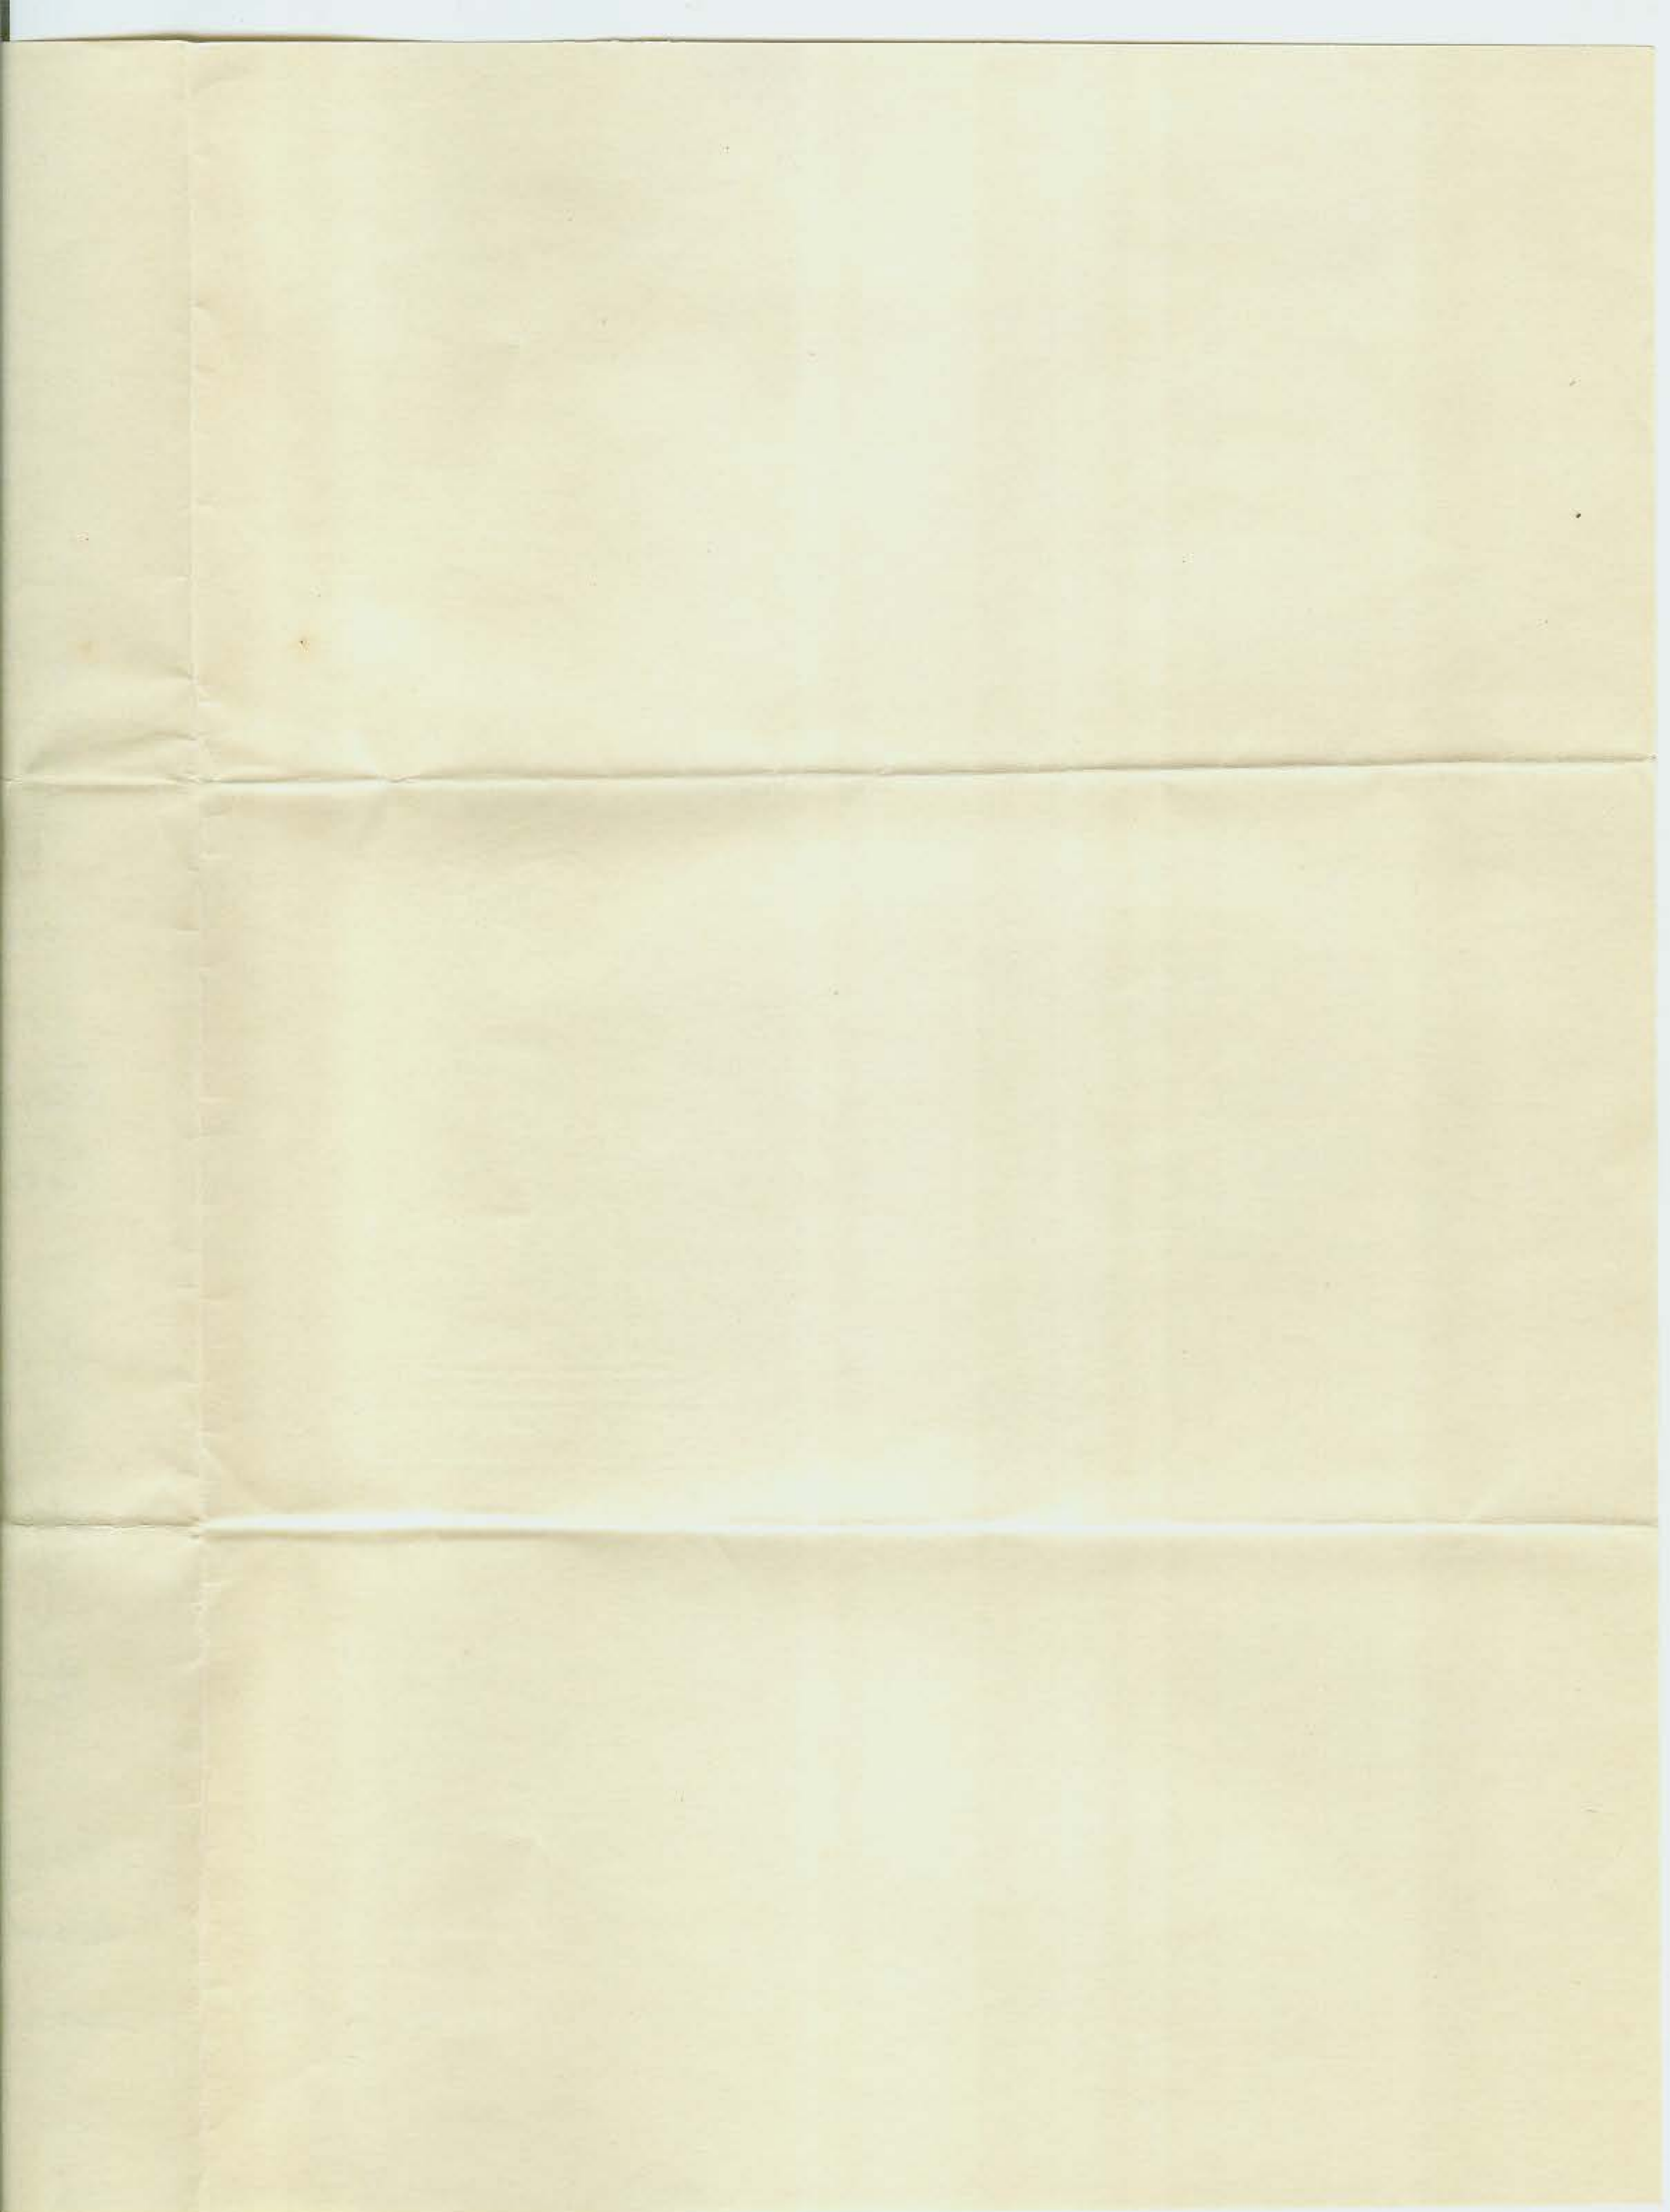

Yours sincerely -

H. C. Gibson

Dear Mother
I received your letter of the 10th and was glad to hear from you. I am well and hope this finds you the same. I have not much news to write at present. I am still in the same place and doing the same work. I hope to write you more often.

Dear 'Rora,

Nelson Doubleday wouldn't sanction this response to the famous invitation; and if I could come, I wouldn't "accept" so informally. But a formal "regrets" wouldn't satisfy me as being eloquent enough to convey my congratulations to you and Hugh.

Suppose it's going to be quite a time, and I can imagine this little rote coming twixt photographers, dressmakers, marcel wavers, and all the rest. You tell Hugh he's got to make you a more considerate Melba's "man". Do you realize you've picked our Reunion work-end to be married, and alma mater is just one whit more insistent than alma Bermudiana!

You tell Rosalind Keller to write me all the details, and send me a clipping from ollie's paper all about the "big doings." Is her going to be one of your attendants? Can and I'll send you a wire from Billville in case I can find him ^{skip!} (sobre) up there.

Darned sorry I didn't get back from Kansas City until almost May; otherwise I'd surely have taken you up on that invitation to come and say "Lowdy."

Remember me, please, to your mother and Dad, and here are "bestest" wishes for you and Hugh, and a darned happy life. And since I'm going to miss the opportunity in Lancaster, may I put a cross at the close?

x! Sincerely,
Norm White
